

Do you have a passion for business, travel, and tourism? Developing professional level skills alongside an understanding of the dynamics of the tourism industry could get you where you want to be. This course prepares you to become an effective manager in the tourism sector – but also delivers a range of transferrable business skills.

Modules are: Level 4

Developing Personal and Management Skills

Whether you're going to work in a microbusiness or a multinational, you'll need great management skills. Starting with managing yourself and working up to leading a team, you will learn how to apply theories of motivation, conflict management, empowerment, and team building.

Understanding the Business Environment

How are businesses structured? Who are your stakeholders - and what impact do they have? You'll start to understand the world of business, from basic ideas about supply and demand, to competition, markets and government effects.

Principles of Marketing

Every business needs marketing - and that's why you'll start studying it early in the course. Starting with basic definitions, you'll learn how to analyse businesses and the wider market, breaking markets down into segments and learning to apply dynamic marketing tools.

Introduction to Finance

In the business world, a basic understanding of financial management is a great asset. We'll take you through how organisations manage their books, how to start preparing accounts and how to use financial information to inform business decisions. Equipped with this, you'll be able to speak the language of your financial colleagues for greater impact in your organisation.

People in Organisations

At its heart, business is about people. The most successful organisations are adept at leading, managing and motivating their people. In this module, you'll explore what makes people tick, how teams work and how to manage change effectively.

Understanding the Tourism Environment

Most of us have been tourists at some point, but have you ever taken a minute to think about how the industry works? You'll come away with an understanding of the key concepts, including what motivates tourists, supply and demand, how this unique supply chain fits together, and what government decisions mean for the sector.

Level 5

Managing Across Cultures

Today's business is a global business, but national cultures differ, so we need to understand how to respond. How will our products work in different markets? How do we deal with multicultural workforces? This module addresses these and other issues critical to managing in the 21st century.

Business Processes

You shouldn't stumble into a way of working - it should be designed and managed to make the most of your time and money, producing high quality results. In this module, you'll look at issues such as benchmarking, managing supply chains, and assessing whether a project has been successful.

Enterprise and Entrepreneurship

Entrepreneurs - whether cut and thrust business people or social enterprise founders - need certain tools and techniques to thrive. From initial innovation, through to start-up and into early growth, this module is about how to go from big idea to big business.

Business Analysis

Organisations generate huge amounts of data, and how they use it can make the difference between success and failure. In this module you will look at finding, working with, analysing, and interpreting data. You will also develop skills in designing your own data collection projects.

Contemporary Issues in Tourism Management

As more of us travel and have more disposable income, so the tourism industry responds by offering different products and services, and governments react by passing laws that offer protection. In this module we will look at some of the trends in the industry, from both a consumer and an organisational perspective.

Sustainable Tourism Management

Can tourism be sustainable? That's what you'll discuss in this module. Looking at how tourism impacts on everyone from local communities to service providers, you'll get an all-round overview of the key issues in the industry today, and be able to make informed judgments about the strategies of tourism businesses.

Level 6

Contemporary Management Issues

You'll get right up-to-date with the latest thinking in this module, probing the issues facing managers today, including sustainability, corporate values, and moral and ethical choices. You'll ponder how the world is changing - from the communities we live in, to globalisation and the way the world's economic landscape is evolving.

Strategic Management

Where is this business headed? What is your key goal? To get there you'll need a road map. Here you'll explore how to design that map, by applying a range of theories and techniques and building a strategy. You'll also look at how organisations deliver their plans by effectively managing change. We'll include a look at what happens in mergers and acquisitions, how to work with partners, and national or international planning.

Managing Self and Others

Earlier in the programme you will have studied ways of supporting others and developing yourself. This module continues that theme. You'll learn how to be at your best by learning stress management techniques, positive thinking, and assertiveness development. Can certain tools help creativity and decision making? You'll be able to decide. You'll scrutinise everything from recruitment, to managing teams and individuals - and getting the best out of them.

International Destination Management

Holidays don't just happen - they need strategy, marketing, and branding. You'll work on how to make a destination competitive, how to manage a crisis, and how to understand trends and the tourism life cycle.

Research Methods and Dissertation

We'll help you every step of the way with your dissertation. You'll start by deciding which topic you want to research and how you're going to approach it, next you'll gather your own data and analyse it alongside books and other resources. Eventually, you'll bring it all together in a dissertation and presentation, by which time you'll be quite the expert.
